THE DEMOCRATIC MEETING AT THE COURT HOUSE LAST NIGHT,—As per advertisement the Democratic meeting came off at the court house last night. After the display of a considerable amount of fire-works, and some music amount of fire-works, and some music from a band, the building was about one half filled. Many of those present we recognized as Union were recogn we recognized as Union men-some of them prominent in the party.

The first speaker was Mr. N. Richardson. He seemed to be speaking against time, and lasted only about a half an hour. His remarks were of the same old character—amounting to nothing— and about a repetition of what he said the night before at Ritchietown.— He was applauded once, we believe,

during his speech.

Mr. R. was followed by Major(?) Stambaugh, of Ohio, the man whom Mr ham fitly styled "a Chinese gong." The Major is a trim man—goes neatly dressed—and sports on top of his head a nice little water-fall, which he shakes about, just like a school-girl, when he He has a regular old hardshell Baptist hymn-singing voice, fitted, we should judge, for an accompaniment to the "harp of a thousand strings," This "gong" sounded away for about two hours, relieving himself of a large lot of the most "flat, stale and un-profitable" stuff it has ever been our misfortune to listen to. He talked much about Mr. Bingham, abused him roundly-which reminded us of the dog baying at the moon. If Mr. Bingham hadn't made a speech here recently the "gong" would have had nothing to sound on. The "gong" grew solemn and serious at times, especially toward the close, and said if need be he would be hammered to death in the cause of equal taxation. At times he was prefane, and even obscene, which accorded well with his evident capacity. Much of Stambaugh's speech was a rehash of the one which was cut so uncerement. usly short in Ritchietown on Monday evening. He frequently used the word "pass" in his speech, for which, had we supposed him to be possessed of

He had better go back to his "deestriet," as he called it, resume his cross-roads political intriques, and leave West Virginia to her glorious destiny. About the only execution he perpetuated last is, has not yet attained its full propo night was of the Queen's English.

By far the best part of the meeting was the music. The enthusiasm was lacking, and there wasn't vim enough in the audience to raise over a half doz-

enough brains for the business, we should set him down for a card player,

About the only truthful remark in his speech was when he said he knew he had inflicted his hearers. (Aye, grievously,) o'clock. Quite a number left before it was over, and those who remained till ing's work.

VAGRANTS.—A gentleman on Market street discovered a couple of small chaps snugly ensconced in his hay mow, chaps snugly ensoneed in his hay now, where (from their familiarity with the premises) they seem to have been in the habit of resting their weary limbs of nights for some time past. They represented themselves as belonging out in East Wheeling, and had in their possession the frame of a clock, minus the works, a horse blanket and a roll of butter, with sundry little things that

A MEAN TRICK.-Night before last, ifter the adjournment of the Demoeratic meeting at Ritchictown, as the speakers, accompanied by some others, were returning to the city in carriages, they were stoned by some unknown parties. No damage was done beyond retail shoe house at No. 107 Main street, the slight bruising of some of the assailed party. This was certainly a de-

QUERY.-We would like some of our Democratic friends to inform us where the man Stambaugh, who has recently been delivering Democratic speeches in our city, acquired the title of "Major"? been delivering Democratic speeches in our city, acquired the title of "Major"? It certainly couldn't have been at the front, for when "our brave soldiers," of whom he talks so much, were out fighting the battles of their country, we understand that he was stumping the State of Ohio for that arch traitor, Vallandig-

Ovsters,-T. H. Mong, on Mouroe street, is in daily receipt of fine fresh oysters. He has reduced the price to 90 cents per can, which, combined with the nicety of the articles offered for sale, will certainly commend Mr. Mong to the oyster enting public.

PROF. MACALLISTER. - At Prof. Macallister's exhibition last night, the principle prize-a fine China tea set-was drawn by Mrs. Mellor, residing on Hampden street. To-night the princi-pal prize will be a fine centre table.— His exhibitions still continue interesting and wonderful.

MARKET YESTERDAY EVENING,-The market was very well attended yesterday evening, by both buyers and sellers. Prices all ranged tolerably high still-butter being from forty to fifty five cents per pound.

FERRY BOAT LAID UP.—The Martins ville ferry boat has been temporarily laid up for repairs. Foot passengers can now cross at that point in a skiff, but vehicles must take another route.

POLICE COURT.-In the police court yesterday nothing was done beyond arraigning a party for some slight of arraigning a party for some slight of QUALITIES can be bought in PHILADEL fine of $20 and only agreement was confessed, and a PHIA or EALITIMORE. fine of $20 and costs assessed.
